

PROPER USE OF THE TRADEMARK

BeaverTails has invested a lot of time, energy and money protecting our beloved mark. While BeaverTails is the sole exclusive user (also entitled to authorize use) of the trademark BEAVERTAILS® registered in Canada, in the United States and in many other jurisdictions throughout the world, we acknowledge that third parties may want to refer to BEAVERTAILS® branded products and services. However, the law requires that we must make every possible effort to prevent incorrect usage of the trademark BEAVERTAILS®, and there are simple but important rules to follow in this respect. Please take a few minutes to read the instructions below on how to properly refer to our trademark.

One of the most capital rules is that a trademark is always an adjective, never a noun. So when referring to BEAVERTAILS®, please use it in the correct context. BEAVERTAILS® is the distinctive trademark, while pastries can be used as a generic term to refer to our delicious dessert.

Some easy guidelines to follow:

- The correct spelling of our trademark is BEAVERTAILS® (one word and all capitalized). If for whatever reason all capitals is not permitted, the B and T must be capitalized.
- Use the trademark as an adjective followed by the generic name of a product. A trademark is not a noun.
Correct: The BEAVERTAILS® pastry is...
Incorrect: The BEAVERTAILS® is...
- Do not use the trademark in the plural or possessive form.
Correct: The BEAVERTAILS® pastries are...
Incorrect: The BEAVERSTAILS® pastries are...
- Use the trademark consistently, as each deviation creates a new, different trademark. For instance, do not use hyphenated variations, combine the mark with other words, or separate the trademark on two lines.
Correct: The BEAVERTAILS® store...
Incorrect: The BT store...

When referring to the trademark BEAVERTAILS®, please make sure the notice below appears on the page:
